Who We Are

Founded in 1954, the World Affairs Council of New Hampshire is a resource for all things global in the Granite State. As a non-profit, non-partisan organization, we provide a trusted platform for exploring critical international issues and promoting greater understanding of the world. Through our speakers series and events, international visitors program and educational programs in the schools, we help connect New Hampshire to the world—and the world to New Hampshire.

Ambassador Nicholas Burns, former ambassador to NATO and Greece, speaks at a Global Forum event.

Our Work

GLOBAL ISSUES SPEAKERS SERIES

We bring foreign policy experts, academics, journalists and international leaders to New Hampshire to speak on breaking issues of global importance. Recent speakers include Nicholas Burns, former Ambassador to NATO, David Sanger, foreign affairs journalist for the New York Times and Masha Gessen, Russian-American journalist.

INTERNATIONAL VISITOR LEADERSHIP PROGRAM

We introduce hundreds of future international leaders to New Hampshire every year by organizing local programs with non-profits, businesses, educational institutions and other groups. Our members have an opportunity to serve as citizen diplomats by hosting visitors in their homes for a shared meal.

ACADEMIC WORLDQUEST™

A fun, fast-paced high school team competition, WorldQuest™ tests students' knowledge of current international politics, geography, global economics, history and world cultures. An education program of the World Affairs Councils of America, we coordinate the statewide competition each year. Champions represent New Hampshire at the national competition in Washington, D.C.
